FEDERAL PAPERWORK MANAGEMENT AWARDS

These awards recognize unusual contributions in reducing and simplifying Federal paperwork. Among results achieved to date are combined first year savings in excess of $1.5 billion. Many innovations have resulted in significant efficiencies and economies. Others have improved service and responsiveness to public needs. Most improvements contribute savings of manpower, money, and materials on a continuing basis for many years.

The National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration has a mandate from Congress to provide leadership, training, and motivation for designing and using simple efficient paperwork systems in the Federal Government. Those who make outstanding contributions toward achieving these objectives deserve to be recognized and honored. This annual awards program brings such worthy accomplishments into public focus. It is endorsed by the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

For the first three years--beginning in 1965--these awards were jointly sponsored by the National Archives and Records Service (NARS) and by the Administrative Management Society (AMS)--a professional office management organization. During the next three years these awards enjoyed the joint sponsorship of NARS and the National Headquarters of the Association of Records Executives and Administrators (AREA). The following four years this role was assumed by the Greater Washington D. C. Chapter of this same organization.

In July, 1975, AREA was merged with the American Records Management Association. This combined unit became known as the Association of Records Managers and Administrators (ARMA). It represents America's foremost organization devoted to efficient records management. The National Capital Chapter of this new organization has served as a joint sponsor with NARS since that time.

Each fall a leader from Government or industry is invited to address those who participate in this annual awards luncheon. The speaker's role is to focus upon the importance of efficiency, creativity, and frugality in operations and courteous responsiveness to the needs of the people served.

Today this award is considered to be one of the most highly prized in this professional field. Those who participate in helping to achieve these worthy goals are deserving of the appreciation expressed annually by letter from the President of the United States and by the warm reception accorded them by those who meet together to honor them.

FEDERAL PAPERWORK MANAGEMENT AWARDS

Jointly sponsored by

NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS SERVICE (GSA)

and

NATIONAL CAPITAL CHAPTER

ASSOCIATION OF RECORDS MANAGERS AND ADMINISTRATORS (ARMA)

PURPOSE

These awards are designed to honor those whose efforts contribute significantly to improved efficiencies and reduced costs in Federal paperwork. Official records are vital and account for a multi-billion dollar expenditure annually. Costs continue to mount as expanding needs are met. Yet a significant number of employees are applying ingenuity and imagination to stem the tide and reverse the trend. These deserve to be recognized and honored.

NATURE OF AWARDS

The highest award is the AWARD OF EXCELLENCE. Each recipient receives a distinctive plaque in addition to a complimentary luncheon ticket for self, guest, and an agency representative. The secondary award is an AWARD OF SPECIAL MERIT. These recipients also receive a suitable plaque and attend as guests of the sponsoring organizations. Each additional nominee who has made a truly significant contribution, in the judgment of the awards judging panel, will be officially recognized at the luncheon and will receive a CERTIFICATE OF NOTEWORTHY ACCOMPLISHMENT to be presented at a suitable ceremony arranged by the agency involved. They will also attend the luncheon as guests of the sponsors.

BASIS FOR SELECTION

Paperwork, as related to these awards, includes the wide spectrum of information, documentation, and records management activities involved in the creation, flow, use, preservation, and disposition of all types of information and records as specified in the Federal Records Act of 1950 and subsequent amendments. The management of paperwork includes various methods and media for information control, storage, and retrieval, including micrographics, word processing, and related technologies.

A special panel of judges, appointed by ARMA, will review all nominations and select those considered eligible to receive the awards mentioned. Basic evaluation criteria considered by the judges are:

1. Relevance of the activity described to paperwork or records systems.

2. A brief biographical sketch of the nominee (one page or less) to indicate the nominee's position, training, professional background, and experience. Include the nominee's business address and phone number.
3. A single covering page (limited to 3 or 4 paragraphs) providing a concise digest of the accomplishment. This will serve as the basis of the description of the accomplishment for the official program.
4. A brief explanation may be added (three pages or less) to clarify details concerning the nomination. The period covered by the accomplishment need not be limited to the current year.
